

University of Belgrade, The Faculty of Chemistry

Vojislav Pejović, PhD: The Structure of Scientific Articles

A 4-day seminar based on the course “The Structure of Medical Articles” designed for the Graham School of General Studies, University of Chicago

Timetable

Class runs from 10:00 to 16:30 each day, with an hour for lunch (12:30 – 13:30). I am almost always early to class and love to talk; you're most welcome to join me and discuss writing issues or other stuff.

Day 1

10:00 – 11:00: Introductions; Course overview

11:00 – 12:30: Intensive editing practice [sample article will be provided in March 2011]

12:30 – 13:30: Lunch

13:30 – 16:30: Lecture and discussion: Critical appraisal: How to evaluate the validity of research and its presentation?

Day 2

10:00 – 11:00: Intensive editing practice

11:00 – 12:30: Lecture, exercise session, discussion: Introduction, Outline

12:30 – 13:30: Lunch

13:30 – 16:30: Lecture, exercise session, discussion: Abstracts

Day 3

10:00 – 11:00: Lecture and discussion: Methods, Results, graphs, and tables

11:00 – 12:00: Intensive editing practice: Last look at the sample article

12:30 – 13:30: Lunch

13:30 – 16:30: Lecture and discussion: Title, Discussion, References, the details that show you care

16:00 – 16:30: Course review

Day 4

09:00 – 11:00: Intensive writing practice

11:00 – 12:00: Discussion

12:30 – 13:30: Lunch

13:30 – 15:30: Intensive writing practice

Lecture and discussion: Title, Discussion, References, the details that show you care, clinical trial registries, authorship, ghostwriting, ethics of scientific reporting, interaction with clients, etc.

16:00 – 16:30: Concluding remarks